“ I was fortunate I got to meet Harold. I was attracted to his goat family and stopped by to try to talk him out of a goat kid. He did not have any for me but told me where I could acquire what I wanted. He was able to give me good advice. When I first met Harold, it was late winter. Although he was obviously not in good health, I was amused by his fish aquarium containing baby chicks which he had hatched.

He was also trying to start early tomato plants.

I enjoyed hearing some of his stories.

I think Harold lived a full and interesting life. I was happy I met him.
