“ Larry and I go back way more than 50 years into our school days. He was a year behind me in school so sometimes we shared classes or P.E. The best times we shared were when we worked at Temple Stevens grocery store and deli. Those were fun times cooking burgers and doughnuts. In-between orders we'd be talking cars. He had a little blue Corvair, I think, and he let me drive it as we dragged Main Street after work. It had four on the floor stick shift. I almost bought it from him but didn't. We kept in touch, moreso in the past year with his dad's passing and his cancer treatment. I thought he was getting better but was shocked to hear of his passing on to another life. May he find peace with the Lord above.
