“ Mary was my Aunt, my dad Richard was her older brother. Couple of valuable life lessons she taught me as a child. 1. being the youngest doesn't make you the weakest, it makes you the smartest if you know how to use it. So stop all the damn crying and running to your momma all the damn time! And 2. certain names have reputations and if you slack on your responsibilities carrying that torch one or all of us will come back and get your little ass! Yeah she was silly and yes they fought...A LOT-lol! But after a couple cans of Coors Light and a couple MORE shots of Jack Daniels they were right back to loving each other and remembering their childhood. Don't remember those stories just remember the laughter. And that's what I cherish, just seeing them looking at each other smiling, laughing and having a good time. So Ms Mary Jane thank you for making my momma work hard to get me to go to bed at night(lol) because I would not have had you any other way. You were an amazing, silly, mouthy handful of a lady and I loved you just like my DADDY(joke between me and Mary) did! May you rest in peace sweet lady.
