“ We were so deeply sorry to hear about Ms. Venita. She was such a wonderful neighbor and friend. I can remember times spent with her going for doctor visits. She was a barrell of laughs even if she didn't feel good. Never complained. Ya'll had a mother that loved her family very much. Ya'll are in our prayers and thoughts. May God Bless You All.

“ I knew Debra in high school but did not know her mom. Reading Venita's obituary was like opening a book on someone I wish I had known, what a nice legacy of kids, grandkids, and g-grandkids. It always struck me that Debra's family must have been rich and she must have had a loving mom. When Debra came to school she always had nice shoes and clothes, her hair was always fixed nice, it had to be her mom, that's what mom's do. Funny how kids see the world. When I read of Venita's death, it brought back the memory of losing my dad and burying him two days before Thanksgiving Day 1997. It makes for a tough holiday. May God comfort this family over this Thanksgiving holiday and continue to bless them. I pray that this whole family will accept God's guarantee so that they will see Venita again one day and in the presence of Christ our Lord.
